CULTIVATION

Sunkissed Farm in Windsor, Vermont, spans 29 acres on an ancient floodplain of the Connecticut River. Our historic farmhouse and artisanal spring are key to our operations. Native sandy loam soil supports our in-ground cultivation. We use insectary species and nitrogen-fixing plants for soil enrichment. Cover crops and cattle rejuvenate pastures sustainably. On-site inputs create compost teas for soil and plant health. Custom greenhouses optimize growing conditions for robust yields. Our exclusive varieties result from meticulous in-house breeding, blending ancient landrace heritage with select crosses for unique strains.
